6. Attach Minutes of the meetings held during the year

This year despite the pandemic, Echo continued undeterred and found new ways to work around the sudden shift to virtual platforms. The society held online auditions in the month of January and selected a team of 13 new members. Through consistent online meetings and practices, the members got to know each other and worked together to create this year’s piece, a heartfelt rendition of ‘How Far I’ll Go’ by Alessia Cara.

Echo participated in various online competitions in both group and solo events and brought laurels to the college. They placed first in ‘AcaHella’ organized by Maitreyi College in the group category and third in Octaves organized by Shaheed Sukhdev College of Business Studies in the solo category. Apart from this, the society majorly focused on building their online presence and keeping their social media active by frequently posting short covers and musical pieces to gain greater reach.

The society hosted ‘JAM 1.0’ an Open Mic as well as an Intra-College Competition in collaboration with JMCEP (Jesus and Mary College Education Program) on 1st May 2021 which was a very successful event and saw the participation of a number of kids and students alike. In these difficult times, this event was much needed and lifted everyone’s spirits. The judges were Khushi Pallavi, Michelle Masih, and Sara Joseph all talented, senior, former members of Echo.

Echo hosted ‘JAM 2.0’ an Open Mic Covid Relief Fundraiser set to take place on 15th May 2021. All the proceeds were donated to Mission Oxygen, an initiative importing oxygen concentrators and donating them to hospitals and St. Mary’s Tiffin Service, an initiative that provides food at nominal rates to covid affected families and ‘JAM 3.0’ in collaboration with the Western Music Society of LSR.

The society also participated in college events from time to time. With everything being moved online, this year Echo contributed by performing remotely for Teachers Day, PTSA, and Freshers to name a few.
