18. SWOC Analysis

SWOC Analysis (2022-23)--- Department Strengths: • The Department of English has an interdisciplinary approach towards the teaching-learning process. Faculty members of the department use different discursive methodologies within the classroom because the English curriculum demands this interdisciplinarity. The faculty members in our department have extensive multidisciplinary specializations in research as well. • The JMC English Department attracts students from different ethnic, geographical and educational contexts. This converts our classrooms into dynamic spaces of multi cultural learning. • The Department does not just conduct academic talks, discussions, and seminars, but offers a mix of enriching co-curricular and extra-curricular opportunities to ensure that our students are given a holistic education. • The Department of English has the distinction in college of offering an M.A. Programme to the students of University of Delhi. • The Department continued its practice to tie up with industry and media houses for skill training, expertise and knowledge-sharing, and other opportunities for students, among other things. • The College's strategic location was utilised for collaborative ventures with embassies in the neighbourhood like the New Zealand High Commission. Department Weaknesses: • Printers, printouts, working laptops, stationery and other such paraphernalia that aid teaching-learning should be made available to the faculty. Opportunities: • The Department would like to utilise all possible opportunities to create a richer research culture for our students, and also balance academic learning with social awareness to offer a rounded education to our students. • We will actively collaborate with other universities to organise programmes and research initiatives. • The multidisciplinary courses such as VAC, SEC and GE offered under the NEP 2020 curriculum provide an excellent platform for expanding student research projects. Challenges: • Given the full teaching workload mandated by UGC and the staggered semesters, finding time to strike a balance between preparing for class, continuous assessment, evaluation of a large number of assignments of a subjective nature, carrying out invigilation duties, conducting practical exams, traveling long distances for university evaluation, administrative responsibilities, extra-curricular activities and mentorship is a challenge. • The ongoing staggered semesters have presented a challenge in facilitating the participation of students from all three years in department events.

19. Future Plans

Future Plans (2022-23)--- • The Department aims to organise an International Conference in 2023-24 • The Department will pursue collaborative ventures with university experts and organise Academic Workshops and Student Seminars on a larger scale to further establish a vibrant research culture in the Department • Connect with industry experts for exploring internship opportunities • Further reinforce our bond with the alumni through the following initiatives: extend invitations to alumni for all relevant department events; give a more formal structure to the alumni network
