Editor: Taisha Abraham

The JMC Review is an interdisciplinary refereed e-journal published annually by Jesus and Mary College, University of Delhi. It is a journal of criticism, practice and theory. The journal elicits submissions from a range of disciplines including anthropology, cultural studies, economics, education, english studies, history, international relations, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology. It is our effort to provide an interdisciplinary platform for scholarly debates and exchange of ideas.

The inaugural volume is based on two broad themes that continue to engender a lot of discussion in the academia: the crisis in postcoloniality, and emerging alternatives to neoliberalism. Each of the articles, interviews and book reviews provide an insightful intervention in their respective discipline and area of study.
