Multiple Childhoods in India - Voices of the Subaltern

23rd and 24th October, 2019

Venue: Jesus and Mary College
Chanakyapuri, New Delhi-110021. India

A Report of the Two-Day National Seminar – Multiple Childhoods in India - Voices of the Subaltern (23-24 October 2019)

Multiple Childhoods in India: Voices of the Subaltern - A two-day UGC sponsored National Seminar by the Department of Elementary Education of Jesus and Mary College was inaugurated by Sister Rosily, the principal of the college and a faculty member of the Department of Elementary Education. Referring to the central role of the college to empower women Sister Rosily warmly invited the participants and guests to challenge singular notions and imageries of childhood.

Ms. Mansi Aneja shared the Concept note of the National Seminar and helped set the tone for the National Seminar.

Dr. Sona Andrew, the convenor of the National Seminar introduced the Key Note Speaker - Prof. Namita Ranganathan, Dept of Education, University of Delhi.

Prof. Namita Ranganathan through her five compelling stories from Kashmir to Tamil Nadu, included accounts from Odisha, Delhi and Rann of Kutch - explored the social-cultural position that stressed the interface between literacy, play, work and gender of the child and the cultures of home, community, and the school. Examining children from these diverse perspectives provided a multidimensional view that deepens understanding and opens up new avenues for research and educational practice.

Too often, in reflecting the value of child-initiated activities, education sets the stage for the growth and development of children and yet hesitates to intervene in that play for fear that to intervene is to create a developmentally inappropriate set of educational practices, yet one is led to wonder whether the lack of intervention may contribute to limiting the educational outcomes of the child's growth.

Dr. Nandita Chaudhary invited us to examine forms and limits of human inquiry. Human beings she said, unlike atoms or molecules, are endowed with cognitive agency. Our grasp of the world, and of ourselves, are not merely responses to external stimuli; they are reflective and reflexive products of human inquiry. She invited us to explore various subaltern concepts and viewpoints, like subtractive knowledge, cultural wisdom and indigenous knowledge frameworks.

The Panel Discussion on Childhood in Conflict Zones, chaired by Dr. Asha Singh with discussants - Dr. Anandini Dar, Dr. Sarbani Sharma and Doctoral Scholar Parul Malik brought together studies, research syntheses, and critical commentaries that examined conflict-child relationships from cognitive, ecological, and cultural perspectives. The focus of the commentaries was to hold research on Childhood and Children and literacy up to scrutiny in terms of scientific significance, methodology, and utility for practice.

In Prof. Sinha's address on 'Children's Literature' we were led to confront an adult discomfort over the multifaceted dimensions of the emotive appeal of literature, as she encouraged adults both to support children's desires to experience in imagination the limits of life and death, and to travel with children on their transformational journeys into unknown territory.

The Panel Discussion on 'Representation of Childhood in Children's Literature', chaired by Dr. Suneeta Mishra with discussants- Dr. Prachi Kalra and Dr. Sonika Kaushik focussed on the representation of childhood and that of complexities of growing up years in literature. While Dr. Kaushik discussed the representation of childhood through various illustrations, Dr. Prachi discussed the literature for young adults and their representation within novels. The focus of the panel was to discuss the need for representing the worldview of children and young adults within the literature published for them.

Ms. Geeta Dharmarajan, in her address on 'Those Magical Years: Interweaving Childhood and narratives', looked at how literature based on contextual experiences of underprivileged children directs them towards a participatory growth. The session further emphasised the need for collaboration of academia and the organisations working with the children from different socio-economic groups in order to create literature for children that has sound theoretical underpinnings.

This National Seminar provided teachers and learners, researchers and students with a sound theoretical framework for re-conceptualising significant aspects of childhood. Its many practical thought-provoking vignettes of the disruptive make this a compelling and provocative experience for any student willing to glimpse the fascinating life and times of the Child.

The National Conference on Innovative Approaches to Plastic Free India was organised on 28 February 2020. The inaugural session began with the lighting of the lamp followed by the Welcome Address by the Principal, Sr. (Dr) Rosily T. L. rjm. In her address, Sr. (Dr.) Rosily emphasised the various anti-plastic initiatives undertaken by the college.

The Conference Convenor, Dr. Mani A. Nandhi, introduced the theme, underlining the importance of conducting the conference and the aim to create a positive impact on the audience. The Inaugural Speech was delivered by the Chief Guest, Prof. Saudamini Das who is the NABARD chair at the Institute of Economic Growth, University of Delhi on the topic: “The Economics of Marine Plastic Pollution in India”. In her speech, Prof. Das discussed the use of plastic from an economic perspective, problems faced during plastic waste management, impact of marine plastic pollution and marine litter in India.

The Special Address was delivered on “Plogging Your Way through the Plastic Pollution” by Mr. Ripu Daman Bevli, founder and CEO of Ploggers of India. He screened a documentary to introduce the practice of plogging to the audience, the three-steps to make India litter free. Mr Bevli, along with the audience took a pledge for a Swachh Bharat through individual effort.

The Keynote Address was given by Ms. Vidya Amarnath, Director of Paterson Energy Pvt. Ltd. titled “Innovation is the Key to Overcome Plastic Pollution in India”. She discussed the Hummingbird Effect of Innovation. Moving on to plastic she talked about its invention, nature, the Great Pacific Garbage Patch and proper management. She highlighted the mission of Paterson Energy to introduce circular economy in plastic using the process of Thermochemical Depolymerisation to produce high variant diesel called Vertex. Ms. Amarnath concluded her talk by stressing on finding solution through innovation and encouraged the audience to do the same.

The Inaugural Session was followed by the Panel Discussion titled Plastics in Environment and Eco Systems – Challenges for Human Health and Welfare. The panelists were: Prof. Anand Krishnan, Professor at the Centre for Community Medicine at AIIMS, New Delhi; Ms. Archana Chatterjee, Project Manager and Lead, the Mangroves For Future Initiative in India and National Coordinator at International Union of Conservation of Nature, India office; Dr. T.K. Joshi, Member, Central Pollution Control Board, Member, Delhi Pollution Control Committee, Adviser, Environment Ministry, Government of India; Ms. Richa Malik, Founder and Director, The Happy Turtle; and Ms. Sameera Satija, Citizen Volunteer for Sustainable Waste Management for Chemical Free Life. The Panel Discussion was chaired by Prof. Saudamini Das.

Prof. Anand Krishnan discussed Air Pollution in Delhi and highlighted top-driven solutions like the Odd-Even Rule and the Bus Rapid Transit or the BRT. He proposed an eco-health approach and a neighborhood environment audit. The next panelist, Ms. Archana Chatterjee discussed how global plastic dumps are in tandem with ocean currents which results in their entry into the food chain. She proposed managing plastic better in order to reduce our plastic footprint, closing the plastic tap program and an improvement in corporate social responsibility. The next speaker Dr. T.K. Joshi focused on the role environment plays on health. He discussed the National Plan on Chemical Safety which is the current focus of the Central Pollution Control Board. He outlined the challenges the medical profession faces because they fail to factor in the environment while diagnosing diseases. He concluded by saying that the century will be spent in understanding how the environment affects our health. The next speaker Ms. Richa Malik spoke about the need for change in consumer behavior by emphasizing individual ownership. According to her, shift of blame and responsibility is not the solution. She concluded by highlighting the importance of solution-based thinking. The last speaker of the panel discussion was Ms. Sameera Satija. Through her work in waste management, she has been privy to the journey of plastic and is aware of the fact that the major contributor in landfills is single-use plastic. She outlined her work in setting up various crockery banks. Prof.. Saudamini Das, the Chair, concluded the session after an interactive Question/Answer session.

The informative and interactive Panel Discussion was followed by two parallel Technical Tracks. Technical Track 1, titled Plastic in Environment and Ecosystems: Initiatives in Reducing Plastic Pollution was chaired by Dr. Shachi Shah, Associate Professor (Environment Studies), School of Interdisciplinary and Transdisciplinary Studies, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi.

The first paper was presented by Dr. Veeragoni Shirisha and Dr. Bir Abhimanyu Kumar, Assistant Director, Student Registration Division, Indira Gandhi National Open University, on the topic “Institutional Initiatives to Control Plastic Pollution - A Case Study of IGNOU”. They highlighted the issues of recycling plastic waste and elaborated on the wide range of initiatives led by IGNOU to combat the problem. The paper also pointed to the scheme ‘Plastic Free Campus’, where community awareness was targeted through plantation drives and workshops and which made the IGNOU campus the first “Plastic free Campus” in the country.

The second presentation was on a study of Household Waste Management conducted in Baghpat, Uttar Pradesh and was presented by Ms. Srishti Malik, who is currently pursuing her Masters in Psychology from IGNOU and co-authored by Dr. Archana Kumar, Assistant Professor and Ms. Ruchi Gaur, Assistant Professor Department of Development Communication and Extension, Lady Irwin College, University of Delhi. The study was based on Bio-Degradable as well as Non-degradable waste and not just plastic. The study focused on the pattern of household waste management and examined the role of women in the waste disposal process and their perception of it.

The third and the last paper for the session was presented by Mr. Shivani Dagar, Ms. Ishika Shah, Ms. Kirti Kumari and Ms. Kiran Pal from the Department of Chemistry, Maitreyi College, University of Delhi. They presented their research on “Synthesis of Copper Nanoparticles Using Non-Biodegradable Waste as well as Using Plant Extract”, focusing on the threat of industrial dyes, particularly Rhodamine B which is produced with the accumulation of Copper nanoparticles in water. They showcased a mode of synthesising copper nanoparticles using waste plastic bottles for the removal of harmful dyes.

Technical Track 2, titled Impact of Plastic Pollution on Environment and Health: Challenges and Lessons, was chaired by Dr. Chirashree Ghosh, Associate Professor, Department of Environmental Studies, University of Delhi. The first paper, presented by Ms. Gowri S. and Mr. Prashant Thote, discussed the green school project wherein students from every grade used waste materials to make various everyday items. Some innovative items include making their own scientific lab equipment and making soaps out of natural products which the school also sales.

The second paper was presented by Ms. Manasvi Bansal, a student of business sustainability school. She talked about circular economy and its impact on the environment, relating it to the sustainable development goals. The third paper was presented by Mr. Madan Singh, a research scholar. He talked about environmental pollution and how the banning of single use plastic can help in the waste management problems in India. The fourth paper was presented by Mr. Soham Krishna. He talked about the reduced plastic consumption in Arunachal Pradesh and using bamboo for various purposes in place of plastic, with the help from the Apatani Tribal Group. This was followed by a lively discussion about sustainable ways to reduce the use of plastic in India.

Technical Track 3, titled Innovative Approaches and Design Strategies for Reducing Plastic Pollution in India, was chaired by Prof. P.K. Joshi, School of Environmental Sciences and Chairperson, Special Centre for Disaster Research, Jawaharlal Nehru University.

The first paper titled “A Creative Solution for a Plastic Free India: Project in Progress” was presented by team Enactus JMC based on their project that undertakes the making of public washrooms using plastic bricks, known as eco-bricks. The project focusses on combating plastic waste and the open defecation problem as these eco bricks will be used in building washrooms in the slum areas of Sangam Vihar, New Delhi.

The second presenter was Ms. Mansha Jain who discussed how black plastic could be re-used multiple times as well as its ability to be able to generate electricity by removing carbon and turning it into nanotubes. She focussed on the field of Innovative Chemical Recycling of Plastics and underlined how plastic can be converted into useful forms of energy like Wind Energy, solar cells and Energy Recovery.

The last speaker of the session was Dr. Divya Agarwal who presented a paper titled “Roadmap of Global Environmental Initiatives and Policies towards Innovative Integral Plastic Waste Management”. Dr. Agarwal explored the advantages and disadvantages of plastic. She highlighted the growing need for systemic plastic waste management and introduced the best practicable global options and environmental policies for Plastic Waste Management. She also presented a comparison between different countries that manage waste efficiently at a global level. She also discussed about several initiatives taken by Indian states and individuals for best practicable methods to manage plastic waste.

The Technical Tracks were followed by the Valedictory Session chaired by Prof. Jyoti Rana, Dean of Skill Faculty of Management Studies, and Dean of Student Welfare and In-charge of GND Centre for Innovative Leadership and Entrepreneurship at Shri Vishwakarma Skill University. The Rapporteurs Shubhangi Tyagi, Anusha Batra, Shreya Dash, Glenys D’Souza, Bhumika Agarwal, Sasha N. Bhatnagar, Aleen Maria Sibi, Neha Mustafi, Srishti Tyagi and Prisha Rewar read out their reports. Prof. Rana gave her concluding remarks on the success of the conference. The Vote of Thanks was delivered by Dr. Renu Gupta.

The National Conference on Innovative Approaches to Plastic Free India was sponsored by Oriental Bank of Commerce. The conference was very well attended with around 560 student participants and 75-100 faculty participants in attendance. The conference came together successfully due to the efforts and hard work of the Organising Team: Sr. (Dr.) Rosily T.L., rj.j.m., Dr. Mani Arul Nandhi, Dr. Renu Gupta, Sr. (Dr.) Molly K.A., Ms. Charu Sarin, Ms. Rashmi Mukhopadhyay, Ms. Sukham P. Chawla, Ms. Ishita Singh, Dr. Christu Doss, Ms. Megha Jacob, Dr. Roshan Xalxo and Dr. Divya Agarwal. The compères for the conference were Muskaan Sethi and Sabhyata Bhateja.
