What according to you, would be the idealized state of women working from home, when neither of the places (public and private sphere) seem to benefit them at all? Don't you think the aspects of housework, 'care-work' deem prominent, even when we're trying to segregate meanings of 'work from home' and 'work at home'?

My Question to Dr. Sen: Do we see the women becoming self-reliant in every aspect? Can we call it a positive effect of the pandemic?

COMMON ROOM

- JMC prides itself in providing comfortable spaces for students. There are two formal common rooms that are easily accessible and centrally located close to the canteen, library, gymnasium and lecture wing.
- Both the common rooms are of sizable capacity and open on three sides. These well-ventilated spaces can accommodate a large number of students.
- Special open areas with steps for sitting have been created at strategic locations in the college.
- The common room near the canteen is adjacent to the Gym and has attached washrooms. It is a free-flowing space that opens into the Student Common Area and Amphitheater, overlooking the Multi-Purpose Hall on one side and the green lawns of JMC on the other.
- This common room is Wi-Fi enabled and is often used by students of various cultural societies to practice for their events.
- As JMC is a women's college, there is no need for women-only common rooms. Located away from the common thoroughfare, it provides the students with a semblance of privacy to relax and freely interact away from prying eyes.
- The second common room, recently renovated, is reminiscent of the original construction of JMC connecting generations of JMC students. This common room opens onto a natural landscape of Aravali rocks on both sides.

Epiphany

Some of the most vivid memories that get bound into your heart and soul are made right at the beginning. Stairs that lead up to the azure skies, a perfect place to sit and wonder, and to call home because of the friendships it has kindled, over unfinished homework and cancelled classes. Beginnings are never steady. Like the river, they flow through creeks of hardships till it spreads with wonder and ultimately rushes down into a pool of golden memories. These steps are, to some, a passage: to me, a place of intimacy. A place where magic bloomed, and no matter what happens, you never want to let go of the memories created there.

o all the clenched thirsts under the blazing sun,
doing everything after our heart's desire....
flaunting the tan lines and scars and cellulited,
it helps me breathe, helps me heal,
from the dripping sweat to a shared meal...
from unending laughter to finding soul mates,
from running late and arguing over late fine rates...
this place is a second home to me and more,
always bounteous in its gifts and wisdom and these three years I'm so sure I'll love it like mad...

Somewhere in the Library

A page of every single book or every page of a single book, what would you like to read? When even little company seems too much, I like to retreat to a safe haven in the JMC library. Not in the reading area but between the bookshelves is where I like to be. You may read some, and daydream much more. There's nothing to complain of, except that the A/C's too cold. And sometimes, as you watch sunbeams filter in and tree leaves outside waft in the wind, the words in the book will silent your mind's whisperings. I let that silence steal away all care, and I find that my safe haven's right there.
